

The Solution Mining Process

Pacific Soda uses the solution mining method to extract trona for soda ash production.

Solution mining is a procedure that uses water and large wells to reach deep underground trona deposits. The pressure of the water pumps trona ore to the surface, where the brine solution (of trona and water) is processed into soda ash.

